

3rd September, 2017

Dear Editor,

The paper I have submitted here is an extension of a conference paper which was published in NSS-2017. From the text point of view, more than 50% new text has been added. From novelty point of view, around 30% novelty has been added. Here I am providing the link of the conference paper.

Please note that I submitted a version of this paper to your journal last night. I have polished it more today morning. I have found that editing option of an existing submission to your journal is not yet activated. Therefore, I have submitted a new paper today. So, please ignore my first submission (JICTS020917-010) and consider my latest submission (JICTS030917-013).

I had to prepare the manuscript under certain time pressure. If you allow me to submit another version within next 5 days, I believe I would be able to enrich the literature review section of my paper. It would be very kind if you allow.

Regards
